The South East Grey Community Health Centre wins the prestigious South West LHIN Quality Award for:

Building primary care capacity and performance excellence in Grey and Bruce

The South East Grey Community Health Centre (SEGCHC) is pleased to announce that they have won this year's South West Local Health Integration Network (SW LHIN) quality award which is awarded annually to one organization within the SW LHIN.

Given that there are 400 healthcare organizations funded by the SW LHIN, this is indeed a great honour.

The award was given based on the SEGCHC's efforts to expand primary care in Grey and Bruce through a number of different efforts including:

1. Partnering with local sole practitioners to receive their referrals to our inter-professional team including our chiropractor, physiotherapist, social workers and dietitians.
2. Partnering with the Alzheimer's Society to train staff and to offer memory clinics to pre-Alzheimer patients.
3. Partnering with Participation Lodge to offer access to a family doctor or nurse practitioner to the residents of the Lodge.
4. Partnering with South East Grey Support Services to ensure that the 80 residents served by SEGSS have access to a family doctor or nurse practitioner.
